The park is about 1.5 km from one end to the other with trees and habitats interspersed with features.

At the southern end of the park there is a viewing and seating area, with small shelters on raised mounds. There are no shops in the park, so you should take drinks etc. with you, particularly on hot days. Most of the tree planting is quite new, so little shelter against the sun when walking around the long curved pathways. Superb flower beds and plantings. No admission charge and entrance only through the colonnade at the north end of the park.

A beautiful place and you will find all old memories from Soviet Era. A place family, Couples can spend whole day, watching Animals and clicking Pictures in Parks.

Visit to Green Bazar

The Green Bazaar, or “Zelionyj Bazar”, is a place you really should visit when visiting Almaty or Alma-Ata. This market is central to the everyday life of the local people and it is so called the ‘Green Bazar, or market, because in the past it was the traditional place to buy and sell local produce like dry fruits. It is by no means the only market in Almaty, but it is the most well-known, and probably, sells the widest range of goods. This is a great place to feel the real atmosphere of central Asia and to get involved with a bit of ‘haggling’ and sampling of local produce.
